"Warm in my country's rights and nature's laws,
"I call forth all our hope in freedom's cauſe;
"Aſſert an empire which to ALL belongs,
"And vindicate a world's long ſuffer'd wrongs;—
"In ſtrains no ſlave dare ſing, no tyrant hear."

THE aggregated judgment of the common people, ſays an eminent writer, diſcerns moſt truly the errors of government, foraſmuch as they are the firſt to be ſure that ſmart under them. In this only they come to be ſhort ſighted; that tho' they know the diſeaſes, they underſtand not the remedies; and tho' good patients, they are ill phyſicians." What are the preſent ſentiments of the Inhabitants of North-America? Diſcern they not moſt truly, and ſmart they not moſt ſeverely under the errors of government? The diſeaſe is known and felt——but where is the remedy, where is the phyſician? For the people to aſk council is deemed treaſonable; to aſſemble themſelves to conſult is denominated rebellion; Thus would ſome potentates terrify mankind with a few ſounding, technical expreſſions. It has been found, in all ages, very difficult to perſuade men, by the moſt refined court chicane, out of their reaſon, and tyrants have ever found it impoſſible to argue, ſooth or frighten the common people out of their feelings. And it is truly ſtrange, to hear the arguments, and ſee the parade of ſome, at this day: One would, from this conduct, be induced to imagine, they thought it the moſt likely way of diſpiriting the people, to render their caſe irremediable. Certainly, ſuch politicians have little ſtudied the volume of nature. A nation, not as yet entirely enervated by luxury, not wholly depreſſed by ſlavery, when reduced to deſpair, are invincible to a proverb.

After what has been ſaid and wrote, on both ſides of the Atlantic, upon colony-affairs; after the moſt perſpicuous demonſtration of the illegality and ill policy of the meaſures purſued, againſt this conſtitution; it would be an affront to the underſtanding, to attempt ſetting the matter in a clear point of view: The meaneſt capacity muſt perceive, the remoteſt peaſant, in the wilds of America, muſt feel the conſequences.

Britiſh taxations, ſuſpenſion of legiſlatures, and ſtanding armies, are but ſome of the clouds which over-ſhadow the Northern world.——Heaven grant, that a grand conſtellation of virtues may ſhine forth with redoubled luſtre, and enlighten this gloomy hemiſphere! If ever there was a time, this is the hour, for Americans to rouze themſelves, and exert every ability.—Their all is at hazard, and the die of fate ſpins doubtful!—In vain do we talk of magnanimity and heroiſm, in vain do we trace a deſcent from the worthies of the earth, if we inherit not the ſpirit of our anceſtors. Who is he, who boaſteth of his patriotiſm? Has he vanquiſhed luxury and ſubdued the worldly pride of his heart? Is he not drinking the piſonous draught, and rolling the ſweet morſel under his tongue? He, who cannot conquer the little vanity of his heart, and deny the delicacy of a debauch'd palate, let him lay his hand upon his mouth, and his mouth in the duſt. Now is the time for this people to ſummon every aid human and divine, to exhibit every moral virtue, and call forth every chriſtian grace. The wiſdom of the ſerpent, the innocence of the dove, and the bold, inflexible intrepidity of the lion, with the bleſſing of GOD, will yet ſave us from the jaws of deſtruction.

Where is the boaſted Liberty of Engliſhmen, if property may be diſpoſed, charters ſuſpended, aſſemblies diſſolved, and every valued right annihilated, at the uncontroulable will of an external power? Does not every man who feels one etherial ſpark yet glowing in his boſom, find his indignation kindled, at the bare imaginations of theſe wrongs? What would be our ſentiments, were this imagination realized? Did the blood of the ancient Britons ſwell our veins, did the ſpirit of our forefathers inhabit our breaſts, ſhould we heſitate a moment, in preferring death to a miſerable exiſtence in bondage? Did we reflect on their toils, their dangers, their firey trials, the thought would inſpire unconquerable courage, unleſs we are indeed baſtards and not ſons. Who dares aſſert every thing, worth living for, is not loſt, when a nation is enſlaved?——Are not penſioners, ſtipendiaries, and ſalary-men (unknown before) hourly multiplying on us, to riot in the ſpoils of miſerable America? Does not every Eaſtern gale waft us ſome new inſect, even of that devouring kind, which eat up every green thing? Is not the bread taken out of the childrens mouths and given unto the Dogs? Are not our eſtates given to corrupt ſycophants, without a deſign, or even a pretence, of ſoliciting our aſſents, and our lives put into the hands of thoſe, whoſe tender mercies are cruelties? Has not an authority, in a diſtant land, in the moſt public manner, proclaimed a right of diſpoſing the all of Americans? In ſhort, what have we to loſe, what have we to fear? Are not our diſtreſſes more than we can bear; and to finiſh all, are not our cities, in a time of profound peace, filled with ſtanding armies, to preclude us even from the laſt ſolace of the wretched;—to open their mouths in complaint and ſend forth their cries in bitterneſs of heart?

But is there no ray of hope? Is not G. B. inhabited by the children of thoſe renowned barons, who waded thro' ſeas of crimſon gore to eſtabliſh their liberty? And will they not allow us, their fellow-men, to enjoy that freedom, which we claim from nature, which is confirmed by our conſtitution, and which they pretend ſo highly to value? Was a tyrant to conquer us, the chains of ſlavery, when oppoſition would be uſeleſs, might be ſupportable; but to be ſhackled by Engliſhmen, by our equals, is not to be borne!——By the ſweat of our brow, we earn the little we poſſeſs; from nature we derive the common rights of man, and by charter we claim the liberties of Britons:——Shall we, dare we, puſillanimouſly, ſurrender our birthrights? Can the debt of nature be cancelled,—is the obligation to our fathers diſcharged,—is the debt we owe to poſterity paid? Anſwer me, thou coward! who hideſt thyſelf in the hour of trial.—If there is no reward in this life, no prize of glory in the next, capable of animating thy daſtard ſoul; think and tremble, thou miſcreant! as the whips and ſtripes thy maſter ſhall laſh thee with on earth, ſo the ſcorpions thy ſecond maſter ſhall torment thee with, in hell!

Oh my countrymen! what will our children ſay when they read the hiſtory of theſe times, ſhould they find we tamely gave away the moſt inveſtable earthly bleſſings? As they drag the galling chain, will they not execrate us? If we have any reſpect for things ſacred, any regard to the deareſt treaſure on earth, if we have one tender ſentiment for poſterity, if we would not be deſpiſed by the whole world, let us in the moſt open, ſolemn manner, and with the determined fortitude of a Corſican, ſwear, We will die, if we cannot live Freemen.—Be not lulled, my countrymen, with vain inſpirations, and idle fancies. To hope for the protection of Heaven, without doing our duty, and exerting ourſelves as become men, is to mock the Deity: Wherefore had man his reaſon, if it was not to direct him; wherefore his ſtrength, if it be not his protection.

To baniſh folly and luxury, correct vice and immorality, and ſtand immoveable in the freedom, in which we are free indeed, is eminently the duty of each individual, at this day. When this is done, we may rationally hope for an anſwer to our prayers; for the whole council of GOD, and the invincible armour of the Almighty. However righteous our cauſe, we cannot, in this period of the world, expect a miraculous ſalvation. Heaven will undoubtedly aſſiſt us, if we act like men; but to expect protection from above, while we are enervated by luxury, and ſlothful in the exertion of thoſe abilities with which we are indued, is an expectation vain and fooliſh. With the ſmiles of Heaven, virtue, unanimity and firmneſs, will inſure ſucceſs; while we have equity, juſtice, and GOD on our ſide, tyranny, ſpiritual or temporal, ſhall never ride triumphant in a land inhabited by ENGLISHMEN.

"Avert it heaven! you love the brave,
"You hate the treach'rous, willing ſlave;
"The ſelf-devoted head.
"Nor ſhall an hireling's voice convey
"That ſacred prize to lawleſs ſway,
"For which a nation bled.

"Vain prayer, the coward's weak reſource!
"Directing reaſon, active force,
"Propitious heaven beſtows.
"But we'er ſhall flame the thund'ring fly,
"To aid the trembling bird that fly
"Before the weaker foes.

"In names there dwell no magick charms;
"The Britiſh virtues Britiſh arms
"Unlock'd our father's hands:
"Say Greece and Rome! if theſe ſhould fail,
"What names, what anceſtors avail,
"To ſave a ſinking land?"

HYPERION.

BOSTON, OCTOBER 3.

THE following was unanimouſly agreed upon as the reſult of the conference and conſultations of the Committee choſen by a number of towns and diſtricts, viz Ninety-ſix towns and eight diſtricts, convened at Boſton, the twenty-ſecond day of September, 1768.

"THE inhabitants of a number of towns in his Majeſty's province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay, being greatly alarmed at the preſent aſpect of our public affairs, and deeply diſtreſſed in their minds, upon authentic advice, that the humble and dutiful petitions of their repreſentatives to our moſt gracious Sovereign, for the redreſs of their grievances, have not reached the royal preſence: at a time when they are threatened with the poſting of regular troops among them, while they are, in an unuſual manner, deprived of the benefit of a general aſſembly, the grand council of the province. And, being deſirous, to the utmoſt of their ability, to promote peace, good order, and due ſubmiſſion among their fellow ſubjects in the province, have in their ſeveral town-meetings legally aſſembled, choſen us to meet together in convention, in order to conſult and adviſe for that purpoſe, and alſo for the legal, regular and prudential methods of obtaining the redreſs of our grievances.

"The ſaid committees, having met for the purpoſes aforeſaid, and after conference and conſultation on the premiſes, thought it adviſeable to prefer a dutiful petition to his Excellency Governor Barnard, his Majeſty's repreſentative in this province, therein ſetting forth, and explaining to his Excellency, the nature and deſign of their meeting, and ſupplicating him to convene a general aſſembly of the repreſentative-body of the people: But his Excellency having conſidered their thus meeting as unlawful, refuſed to receive the petition; and ſent them a meſſage, admoniſhing them to ſeparate themſelves; and alſo afterwards he refuſed to receive an anſwer, which the ſaid committee thought neceſſary to ſend to his Excellency, in conſequence of his meſſage and admonition to them; the committee therefore conſidering, that the peaceable and good intention of their convening might poſſibly be miſunderſtood, thought it neceſſary that their proceedings ſhould be made known to the world, by inſerting the ſame in the public prints, that ſo every ſuſpicion of any illegal deſign or behaviour might be removed.

"And the ſaid committee, conſidering themſelves only as ſo many private fellow ſubjects, convened from divers towns in this province, at the requeſt of their inhabitants, have made known to each other the loyal and dutiful diſpoſition of the ſame; and their deſire that no irregular ſteps ſhould be taken by the people, but that all conſtitutional and prudential methods ſhould be chiefly attended to, for the redreſs of their grievances; and the ſaid committee, in purſuance of the pacific intention of their meeting have conſidered, that the gracious attention of his ſacred Majeſty to the cauſe and grounds of our complaints, is the only regular ſource of relief from our preſent diſtreſſes; and that the houſe of repreſentatives, in February laſt, did, in their faithful care and concern for the intereſt and welfare of this province, prefer ſuch a petition to his ſacred Majeſty, as by them was thought beſt adapted to obtain relief; and at the ſame time, did write letters to divers noble Lords and others, to intereſt their attention to our public difficulties; which petition to his Majeſty, we are in hopes, has before this time, reached the royal preſence, and will, ere long, have the deſired effect.

"And as we cannot but ſtill entertain the hopes that his Excellency our Governor, will ſoon think fit to call a house of representatives, who may, if they see occasion therefore, prefer further petitions to his Majesty, for our redress; we are therefore humbly of opinion, and flatter ourselves it will not be taken amiss if we declare, and which we are assured, is the sentiment of the several towns to which we belong, that though the present appearance of our public affairs is alarming and distressing, yet that the common cause of obtaining the redress of the heavy grievances under which we labour, will be best served, by a firm adherence to the principles of the constitution, and a close attention to the peace and good order of society. And though we are satisfied from the knowledge we have of the loyalty and attachment of the inhabitants of this province to the person and government of our most gracious sovereign, that any tumults and disorders that may have happened, have not arisen from the least disaffection to the government as by law established, or the want of loyalty to our King on the British throne, but merely from a pressing anxiety of mind on the account of heavy and increasing grievances—which grievances were very clearly set forth by the house of Representatives of this province in February last, in the aforesaid petition and letters, wherein they express their deepest concern that the parliament has thought proper to pass divers acts imposing taxes on his Majesty's subjects in America, with the sole and express purpose of raising a revenue; and they add, "that if those acts of parliament should remain in force, and his Majesty's commons in Great-Britain shall continue to exercise the power of granting the property of their fellow subjects in this province, his Majesty's people here must then regret their unhappy fate in having only the name left of free subjects." And in their letter to their agent they say, "that the colonists cannot be conceived to have any property, if their money may be granted away by others without their consent, and that this is most certainly the present case." And speaking of a standing army, they appeal to the transactions of the parliament to shew the sentiments of the nation of the loyalty of this province, and justly affirm that their good disposition renders a standing army needless; they further declare, that as Englishmen they have an aversion to an unnecessary standing army, which they look upon as dangerous to their civil liberty. And further, "that the time may come when an united body of pensioners and soldiers may ruin the liberties of America." Yet considering the favourable blessing and happy consequences of peace and good order, and the great advantages resulting therefrom, for producing convincing arguments, and placing truth in the most conspicuous point of view; and also considering the horrible nature and dreadful consequences of tumult and disorder, we think it our duty, as friends to our common cause, as embarked in the same bottom of provincial happiness, to give our free and sincere advice, not in an authoritative, but merely a friendly manner, that we should all of us compose our minds, and avoid any undue expressions of resentment, and each one of us prevent so much as in him lies all tumults and disorders into which our present calamities may betray us; and to attend with all due patience, and a regard to good order, the result of his Majesty's wisdom and clemency, from whence we reasonably expect to receive our much desired relief.

"And it is our firm resolution, in our several stations, as by our allegiance required, and by our loyalty inclined, at all times, to yield every possible assistance to the civil magistrate, in the suppression of riots and tumults, and in preserving the peace; being humbly of opinion, that the posse comitatus when legally called in aid of the civil power, will ever be sufficient to restrain all orders of men within the bounds of the law, and the limits of the constitution. We, from the bottom of our hearts, not only disclaim and detest all pretence of "usurping" any of the "rights of sovereignty," but also of arrogating to ourselves any the least authority whatever. We clearly hold, and whenever lawfully called thereunto will, at the utmost hazard of our lives and fortunes, maintain that the "sovereignty" of his most sacred Majesty King George the third is already "entire" in all parts of the widely extended and still happily spreading British empire; and may God forbid that we should ever more be left to think or wish, much less to act any thing in "Opposition" of the same. "Ignorance of the law" neither in a court temporal or spiritual, is a proper "plea" or "excuse." We would appear not as attornies, proctors or pettyfoggers, but as plain honest men, humbly consulting peace and order, and for the best temporal felicity of our country and of posterity. We would wish as far as is in our power, ever to promote and cultivate that harmony and union between Great-Britain and her colonies, on which the happiness of both so much depend. We think ourselves happy in being connected with the parent state, in the subordination, which forms the happiest bond of union between the colonies themselves. We have been taught, that it is the duty of all men, incessantly to implore the throne of heavenly grace; and have but lately heard there are those who deem it criminal for aggrieved fellow subjects to join in humble, dutiful and loyal supplications to their monarch. While the people wisely observe the medium between an abject submission, and a slavish stupidity, under grievous oppressions on the one hand, and irrational attempts to obtain redress on the other, and steadily persevere in orderly and constitutional applications, for the recovering the exercise of their just rights and liberties, they may promise themselves success. And while they stedfastly maintain those invaluable blessings which are derived to them from God and nature and the happy constitution of the government under which we live, they may safely rely on the influence and direction of him who rules according to his pleasure with unerring wisdom, and irresistible influence, in the hearts of the children of men; under whose favour no grievance can be durable, and without which no enjoyment can be truly valuable."

Four or five years credit will be given, if desired, paying the usual interest. Whoever has a mind to purchase, may treat with me on Ashley-River. ISAAC LADSON.

CHARLES-TOWN, October 31.

ACCORDING to the last accounts from our South-western settlements, the lenient measures formerly adopted by his Excellency the Governor, and since further continued by his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, have had the most happy effects, peace and good order being now perfectly restored in those parts, and the very appearance of tumult subsided,—but they observe, that the continuance of this temper will greatly depend upon a proper attention being paid to constitutional applications for redress of grievances, which, from the benevolent disposition of our Governor in Chief, we have no room to doubt, will meet with all possible countenance from his Excellency.

Yesterday afternoon His Excellency the Right Hon. Lord CHARLES GREVILLE MONTAGU, Governor in Chief, &c. of this province, returned, much recovered in his health, with his Lady, from the Northward, having travelled all the way by land from Boston, and was saluted by a discharge of the cannon here, and at Fort Johnson, and the ringing of St. Michael's bells.

Our Letters from Dominica, dated the 11th inst. advise, that the French King's Edict had taken place in all his islands, the ports of Martinique having been shut up to all English Vessels on the 1st of August last, and those of Guadaloupe and Mariegalante on the 1st instant; so that no English vessel whatever is now suffered to enter any French port, except at St. Lucie and the Mole at Cape Nichola on Hispaniola.

Capt. Malcom, who arrived here last Wednesday in 8 days from Providence, brings advice of the arrival there of the Rose man of war, two days before he sailed, with his Excellency the new Governor of his Majesty's Bahama Islands on board.

By Capt. Doran, who arrived here last night from St. Augustine, we are informed, that most of the King's troops, expected from West-Florida, were arrived there; and that the remainder of the foreigners concerned in the disturbance at Dr. Turnbull's settlement in August last (19 in number) have been lately taken among the Florida Keys.

Yesterday were married, Mr. Samuel Thomas, jun. to Miss Jane Douxsaint, daughter of Paul Douxsaint, Esq; and John Colcock, Esq; attorney at law, to Miss Mellifont Jones.

Thursday last died, Mr. Ezekiel David, merchant.

We can now assure our readers, that the quantity of Rice shipped, since this day last year, from this port, and the ports of Beaufort and George-Town, exceeds 125,000 barrels. The quantity made this year cannot be ascertained, but is supposed nearly equal to the last.

New Rice is brought to market fast, and several parcels have been sold at Three pounds and Ten shillings per cent. weight.

From the Public Advertiſer, Aug. 26.

AGREE with your correſpondent Valerius, that the public curioſity has been very buſy to find the cauſe of Sir Jeffery Amherſt being turn'd out of the government of Virginia, to make room for Lord Bottetourt; but I cannot agree that the only motive for that very extraordinary removal, and as extraordinary appointment, was the obedience which our miniſter the Duke of B——d implicitly pays to all the orders of his hidden Maſter: That it was done in obedience to ſuch orders I make no doubt; but then his Gr—e had a much more laudable motive than mere obedience; a deſire to advance another, and a very material ſtep toward the completion of that grand ſcheme, which he undertook to carry into execution for the THANE his maſter. To puniſh and degrade every appearance of Spirit and independence, and amply to reward the moſt abject Servility, are meaſures highly conducive to the great deſign of ſeizing at once the Liberty and Property of all Engliſhmen. For this purpoſe was Sir Jeffery Amherſt puniſhed, and Lord Bottetourt rewarded. His Gr—e began with the money'd property of the kingdom, which he has rendered moſt happily precarious, and brou't entirely under the power of the all ruling Favourite, by depriving the Eaſt-India company of the benefit of the law, and the liberty of diſpoſing of their own property, by ſuch means as are immediately applicable and ready to be uſed againſt the proprietors of all the other funds.

The money'd intereſt thus thoroughly ſubdued and brought under command, his next attack was upon the landed property, by public oppreſſion and private invaſion; by endeavouring to continue a burthenſome and unneceſſary tax of 4s. in the pound on the whole landed property; and by taking away the private eſtate of the Duke of Portland, and beſtowing it on the Thane's Son-in-law Sir J—s Low——r.

The army was the next, and a very material body of the ſtate to be put into proper diſcipline. An experiment has been lately made, whether the lower part of the nation would bear their throats being cut with as much patience, as their betters have borne the invaſion of their deareſt rights. That experiment has perfectly ſucceeded, and was made at a trifling expence—forty or fifty lives in St. George's fields. But in order to be ready to carry into perfect uſe, what ſucceeded ſo well in the experiment, the army, which is to be the executioner upon ſuch occaſions, muſt be new modelled. It was imagined, and I believe very juſtly, that though Sir J. Amherſt did very well in America, he might make but a poor figure in a campaign in St. George's-Fields: It was ſo often that his ſpirit would not bear a groſs and ſtudied affront. He was turned out of his government of Virginia without any cauſe aſſigned; and the affront made more galling by the appointment of ſuch a ſucceſſor. It was not hard to gueſs what would follow. With a ſenſe of true dignity worthy of him, he reſigned his regiments, which, I ſuppoſe, will be given to thoſe who will have more alacrity in murdering their fellow ſubjects.

One order of the ſtate yet remains undiſturbed in their rights, and hitherto ſafe in their property; I mean the Church. I was inclined to think that it was merely owing to the want of time; for no Genius, not even his Gr—e, is able to effect every thing at once; but he is more probable, that he does not chuſe to irritate the Bench of B——ps, leſt they might obſtruct what he ſo earneſtly wiſhes, the getting rid of his Wife, and marrying his Wh——e.
